Letters From the People

ROCKEFELLER'S GIFT.

Editor Advertiser:—President Jordan, of the Stanford University, wrote a short paper on "The Blood of the Nation" in which he shows that in war, especially when long protracted, the most patriotic, the bravest, the strongest, are killed off, leaving the weaklings, the cowards, the least patriotic to perpetuate the race.

No one can question the greatness (the intellectual power, the virility, the concentration) of the Alexanders, the Caesars, the Bonapartes. But after reading this book by Mr. Jordan, one can not help questioning the uses to which these great leaders put their powers. No one can question the greatness, the intellectual power, the virility, the concentration, of the Astors, the Goulds, the Rockefellers, the Morgans, the Harrimans. But many are questioning the use to which these men put their powers.

Mr. Carnegie presents an argument in favor of the few accumulating vast fortunes, which, from his standpoint, is certainly very logical. And this gift of a million dollars by Mr. Rockefeller to fight the hookworm, and thus benefit a whole people, seems to bear out Mr. Carnegie's suggestions.

Thousands of people are not merely incapacitated for work, but are degenerating; and Mr. Rockefeller provides the means for improving them, in every way. Since I first began to think of these great men and their place in the scheme of civilization, I have not questioned their value as leaders to show the people what is yet to be done and now it is to be done. This vast concentration of wealth, of labor and of management is only the foundation of what is to be built later. These gifts of libraries, parks, universities, art galleries, public benefits, are only object lessons to show the people what they need.

These benefits could not come without the accumulation of wealth in the hands of the few. This accumulation of wealth is the work for specialists. And most of these specialists have been too selfish to use their powers, except for selfish ends.

There is a prophecy of a time coming when it will be more honorable for the Rockefellers and the Harrimans to serve their fellowmen than to serve themselves. And when that condition of human affairs comes, we shall have statesmen who can smite the Rock of Finance and get from it what the people need.

The only reason that such a gift as Mr. Rockefeller's is not generally considered an insult to our civilization, a slap in the face of our government, lies in the fact that it is all a part of our human development, and Mr. Rockefeller is but an agent in this human development. He collected this wealth from the people; and he redistributes this much to the people. What the government should have done, was left for Mr. Rockefeller to do. He collected; he redistributed.

For showing the government its duty to the people, the people may honor Mr. Rockefeller. But for his methods in collecting, and this influence upon the business integrity of the people—read what follows:

"He has done more than any other person to fasten on this country the most serious interference with free, individual development which it suffers, an interference which, today, the whole country is struggling vainly to shake off."

"What has Mr. Rockefeller given the public in return for the code of business principles he has taught it, in return for the hypocrisy and cynicism he has fostered? A great business organization, a demonstration of the possibilities of combination! True, but to build his organization he was obliged to perpetuate by force, by bribery by trickery a vicious business system the country at large was striving to overthrow."

"Not only has charity been tainted by the hypocrisy of his life, the church itself has been polluted and many a man has turned away from its doors because of this. . . . Does all this pay?"

"From him we have received no impulse to public duty; no example of enlarged and noble living. . . . He has not made good. He can not make good. . . . All his vast wealth spent in one supreme effort to evade the judgment of men would be but wasted."

Yet, in spite of the selfishness and corrupting influence of these great men, they are the agents, willing or unwilling, who are showing humanity the way, in its slow circling towards the heights. And whether their corrupting influence upon business morals and upon professional integrity is greater than their power as real leaders of human effort, we must leave the final decision to those who reach the heights.

The one hopeful sign is that many have advanced far enough to feel the injustice of our government neglecting its plain duty to the people and the shame of being obliged to receive this charity from Mr. Rockefeller.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Honolulu People Know How to Save It.

Many Honolulu people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a Honolulu citizen's recommendation:

James C. L. Armstrong, Nuuanu Valley, Honolulu, Hawaii, says: "I was a sufferer from kidney trouble for three years and Doan's Backache Kidney Pills completely cured me. I have had no return of the complaint during the past year. I cannot recommend this remedy too highly."

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists and storekeepers at 50 cents per box (six boxes $2.50) or will be mailed on receipt of price by the Hollister Drug Co., Honolulu, wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

Remember the name, Doan's, and take no substitute.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

A gentleman residing at Dunedin, N.Z., writes under date Jan. 7, 1907:

"It is with gratitude I write you that I have now a splendid head of hair, both thick and very soft, all owing to my having used your wonderful Hair Vigor. I was almost bald headed before I used the Hair Vigor. I still use it once a day, rubbing it well into the roots of the hair. I used to wear a skull-cap, and I am very grateful to Ayer's Hair Vigor for the improvement it has made in my looks."

Be warned in time. Use Ayer's Hair Vigor and preserve your youth.
